

ARC 422

Art and Space: Fragments

Sanat ve Mekan: Fragmanlar

English, Flipped Classroom, Undergraduate

Fall

Lecture+workshop: 4 hours a week

Özden Demir

The formation of the built-environment and the production of art have turned into a spectacle, defined only by the market value of the end-product. However, when the design of space and artistic practice are conducted with a critical eye, they do have the potential to become tools to understand and transform the conditions they exist in.

Throughout the term, currents in architecture and art history will be examined; and the necessary theoretical background will be formed through the screening of films, readings, exhibition visits, the observation of contemporary examples and presentations by architect/artist guests.

The aim of the lesson is to help students develop the skill to perform sociological, cultural and political readings of architectural space and the art work, and to produce/design with a critical eye in context.

A video, installation and interior design project on a current issue will also be developed by students as part of the course.
